

The moving mission is far from impossible

If the trials and tribulations of moving house make the whole upheaval seem like mission impossible to you – then Paul Carr Estate Agents, Mere Green believe they may have the answer to your problems.

They have linked up with Lichfield-based lifestyle management company Mission Accomplished to help people painlessly through the whole process.

One of Paul Carr's clients, Mrs Watts-James of Four Oaks, hadn't moved house for almost fifty years. When she decided to down-size, she went to Mark Bentley at Paul Carr to put her house on the market and purchase a bungalow. However, being on her own and unfamiliar with the moving process, she needed a helping hand.

"I couldn't have managed without the services of Mission Accomplished," said Mrs

Watts-James. "They obtained quotes for the removals, liaised with the utilities to ensure a smooth transfer, dealt with all the change of address correspondence, and even found an auction house to sell off some of my collectables. They made the move so much easier for me, and my friends were all very impressed with the service provided. And the service doesn't end there – they are now helping me find reliable tradespeople to sort out the jobs which need doing at the new house."

Mark Bentley said: "This kind of value-added service gives another dimension to the traditional services of the estate agent. There are so many occasions when our clients just need an extra pair of hands to help them with aspects of their house move and Mission Accomplished provided just that. It's a unique partnership which we hope to build on over the coming months."